crisis. And the crisis is more than just an ever-present threat of job cuts and massive budget cuts. The crisis is structural. The Canadian Forces is stuck in the stone age. They have not made any significant changes to their mission or their equipment since the first Gulf War in 1990. The fact that the Canadian Forces has not modernized its equipment or its mission since then is a major problem. The situation is much the same as the US forces.

---

It was not until 1998 that the US Army made any significant changes to its force structure.

And the changes were significant. In Canada, the latest crisis is the amount of money the Canadian Forces is getting. The government announced the base funding budget would be reduced to $12.1 billion from $14.6 billion. They are now in the process of reducing this further. These cuts will be painful. They will require large cuts in both the ground forces

---

and the naval forces.

The government has also announced that it
plans to cut $40 billion from the defence
budget over the next five years. This means that in a decade, the entire defence budget

will be cut in half. This is the equivalent of taking an entire army and cutting it in half.

According to Reuters:

The government is cutting $8.4 billion over 10 years from the Canadian Forces' budget, the government announced on Thursday. This, Finance Minister Jim Flaherty said, will provide a small boost to the troops. But as CBC News has reported, the military has seen some key funding decreases this year.
